The foregoing report of schools is respectfully submitted to the district by the school board.

As is shown by the preceding tables, the length of the school year has been in most cases thirty-three weeks, as usual.

Among the few changes which have been made is the establishment of a school of two grades, primary and grammar, in place of the ungraded room at East Swanzey village. This change has seemed to be a step in the right direction and the school board is confident that improved work will continue to demonstrate the wisdom of the change.

This leaves the town with, at present, only three schools having all grades under one teacher. This kind of a school furnishes one of the most serious problems of the school work.

It is the intention of the school board to provide as nearly as possible, equal school privileges for all scholars, but the work of the teacher in the so-called "ungraded" school of twenty-five or thirty pupils is so much harder than that in a "graded" school of the same number of pupils that it is difficult to find teachers of the experience and ability needed who are willing to take ungraded schools when graded ones are offered with the same pay. Probably if the harder schools commanded the better pay the situation would be somewhat relieved, but not much can be done in this line with the present appropriation as it would not be good policy to weaken the graded schools by cutting down their salaries in order to raise the others. The price of good teachers has risen and is still rising and it must be paid if we are to secure and keep them.

The state course of study has been adopted as a basis upon which to conduct supervisory work and it is intended to bring the classes in all the schools to correspond with it as fast as it is possible to do so. The committee is confident that, with the cooperation of teachers, the oversight of the superintendent and the detailed and explanatory notes and instructions provided by him, a noticeable amount of progress toward reducing the school work to a satisfactory practical working system, may soon be shown.

GEORGE I. CUTLER,
JESSIE H. MARSH,
GEORGE F. BALCOM,

School Board.

REPORT OF
SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board of Swanzev:

This report of your superintendent, which is hereby submitted to you, covers the work of two terms of school from Sept. 2, 1908, to Feb. 5, 1909, inclusive. In this report I wish to take occasion to make mention not only of the existing state of affairs in your schools but also to suggest certain plans for the improvement of such as need improvement. These changes, it is believed, would place the schools more nearly in accord with the best accepted school systems of today.

In the first place, in my mention of the existing state of affairs, I wish to be exactly and definitely understood, not as criticizing for the sake of faultfinding, nor as looking for defects only, but as in a way explanatory of certain plans for betterment which are hereinafter suggested. It perhaps goes without saying that plans for the improvement of affairs presuppose existing defects to be remedied. It is for this reason solely that I mention a few things in which there is a demand for constructive improvement.

The schools of Swanzev are in no better and no worse condition than are the schools of most other places. Yet it is also true that schools of most other places can be improved; for hardly a citizen of a town can be found who will claim that his schools have attained perfection.

School teaching is not as attractive to our brightest girls as it formerly has been, owing to the fact that they can get a better living at other employments. They are not willing to submit to the nervous strain of teaching, carrying with it as it sometimes does ill-treatment at the hands of parents, and (more rarely) insults, and at the same time poor wages. To secure more of our bright girls, such as formerly graced even our little schoolhouses, wages must equal or surpass the wages in other lines of work. And we can ill afford to have anything but the best in charge of the morals and minds of our children. It is not a sufficient qualification for a teacher that she needs to earn a living, any more than it is a sufficient qualification for an engineer; and we have a right to expect that a practising teacher shall be as expert in her work as a practising physician. A child's education, as has been shown to me in cases of this town, may be so hopelessly bungled by a poor teacher in the child's early years that he never recovers from the resulting crippled mental condition. A good teacher means in so far a good school, it is an investment in a true business sense. A poor school is a tax at any price. We may generally expect a school to be worth what we pay for it.

As I write this there comes to my attention a bill before the legislature in which is provided a reimbursement from the state to each town of $3.00 per week for every normal trained teacher employed by that town. This deserves to pass and should receive the attention of every man who has children in his charge.

But the best teacher may be handicapped by lack of necessary material. And I wish to speak here of the equipment of our schools.

The schools lack in some instances efficient teaching. By teaching, in the sense accorded to it by the most thoughtful scholars, is meant not the hearing of a handful of facts gleaned from the pages of a text-book and recited by a pupil without understanding of their meaning, but a real, live, arousing of the pupil's mind so that he shall think for himself. Good teaching is inspiring. Perhaps we ought to apply the name "inspirers" to those persons who are capable of making the most out of scholars rather than the name "teachers." And most of all, the brains and money and industry of the best of educators everywhere are applied to clearing out the deadness and dullness and dryness from the schools and getting live work there in its stead.

In order to be an efficient teacher it is understood that a person must himself have a thorough and fairly complete knowledge of the subjects he proposes to teach. This is not the case with some of the teachers in some of our schools; I am glad to say not many. Added to that must be an energy and an ability to waken the pupil to his work and to get him thinking and doing for himself, and also behaving himself and we have in such a case a good teacher and a good school. This is one reason for employing supervisors of our public schools—to get as far as human judgment can, intelligent teachers for our schools.

We cannot always be sure until we test them that a teacher will turn out to be good. But if she fails in her work she ought to be removed at once before she harms the minds of children more than they can ever be remedied.

A corollary to the above statements might be added; to secure the best workmen it is necessary to pay the best wages.

There are six school buildings open in the town this year occupied by eleven schools. These eleven schools are using a great variety of text-books; hardly any two using the same. The results of this lack of uniformity of text-books are that the scholars of different schools are not prepared alike to enter the same high school or to move from one part of the town to another without serious loss in his education.

In addition to this confusion of text-books is a more serious lack of sufficient text-books of any sort, except the most dilapidated kind. There have been urgent calls from every school for books which are as necessary to the work of the school as bread is to the dinner. These calls have not been occasioned by the fancy of the teacher for new covers on a book, but by an urgent necessity. An apprentice cannot learn to be a good carpenter without material to work on, and he cannot work on the same board for a year at a time. Neither can a child learn to read without something to read and he cannot be kept reading the same old book over and over again week after week without becoming more of a dunce instead of more of a reader. What he needs is something to arouse his interest and keep him reading because he likes to do so.

Schools exist to furnish our pupils with what they cannot get elsewhere. They do not exist to be a bore to a child, but to give him a live mental equipment which he will not usually get at home nor at the library; and unless we have good teachers and a good equipment to serve these ends our educational scheme is deficient.

In arithmetic we need more attention to strict common sense business methods. Accuracy, speed, training to see quick methods and relations are needed in our schools; and material with which to secure these ends.

Our schools are needy in illustrative material in history and geography. Apparatus is well used when it helps to make real and vivid to the pupil's mind peoples, places, and facts about which he is supposed to know something. These illustrations impress such facts on the child's mind in a way that he does not easily forget. Historical study should begin very early in our schools. But we have no simple historical reading which young children can understand. Consequently the pupil knows nothing of history until the sixth grade when he is suddenly plunged into formal history which he cannot understand. I have found, by actual experiment, that children of the fourth and fifth grades are more interested in history well written for children, than they are in so called story books. In general, children are interested in the real more than in the imaginary and it is more wholesome for them. I mean children of the age of ten years. Historical reading provided for our lower grades would lead to better reading and better history when pupils came to a study of our nation.

Now as to a plan for providing for this equipment. It can be done at no great cost to the town. By working on a careful plan with a definite end in view we can in three years get a fair supply of all this suggested material. It will cost about $400. This cost could be distributed over three years and roughly amount to upwards of $150 per year; not more than that. Our current supplies which need to be renewed each year can be bought for $150. These include all the paper, pens, pencils, etc., for six school buildings. So that the total cost each year will not exceed $300 for supplies, which is not far from what the town appropriates annually now.

The special part of this plan consists in setting aside $150 each year for that definite purpose. The life of a good book well-managed, is surprisingly long, and after the equipment is once secured a small annual expenditure thereafter will be sufficient to replace wornout copies and add more where needed.

The material thus purchased would be designed for work in geography, reading, history, English language, and arithmetic, and would amount to about $0.56 per pupil per year.

Your superintendent has devoted considerable care and time to the developing of outlines or courses of study such as are provided in our best schools, and without which it is impossible to reduce a number of separate schools to a common system. Here may be seen one of the things which a supervisor is supposed to do and which teachers cannot efficiently plan for themselves. It is not enough to secure good teachers and good equipment unless at the same time there is good planning for the best use of this equipment in accord with carefully graded courses of study.

A part of this work has already been done. Suggestive outlines in reading, English language, arithmetic and geography have been prepared and placed in the hands of most of the teachers.

It is planned to supply the rest before the close of the year. These outlines contain a carefully planned amount of work for each grade so that each higher teacher may pick up the work where the teacher of the year before left it. They also contain instructions to teachers of the best methods of teaching a certain subject. By these courses of study one of the great ends of a public school system is subserved; the careful grading of a pupil's work so that he shall study first what belongs first and take each step thereafter in its proper order.

I have spent, as required by your division of my time, one-third of it in the town of Swanzy. I have deemed it more conducive of best results to visit each room less often than might be done and spend more time in the school at each visit. I have not often visited a school without leaving suggestions for the teacher. These suggestions have been designed to be, not so much critical, as helpful toward better teaching; and in the majority of instances the teachers have been very cordial in acting on such suggestions. In this connection I wish to express the pleasure I have had in working with the teachers. They have been helpful in their suggestions and good will.

Frequently I have spent from one to two hours in a school hearing several recitations of different classes, and giving myself a substantial period of time to judge of the teacher's personal education and her common sense in teaching. I have paid careful attention to the teacher's manner toward her pupils and to their progress in work. One of the grades in West Swanzey deserves special mention for its progress in spelling, arithmetic and geography.

In most of our schools the correct use of the mother tongue seems to be falling into disuse.

There has been a desire expressed in certain quarters for the teaching of music and drawing in our public schools. It is quite possible, at no great expense, to furnish our schools with one of a few recent systems of drawing which a teacher could manage even with no previous skill in drawing on her own part. Music could be introduced wherever it might be possible to hire a Normal trained teacher. No question can be raised regarding the usefulness of drawing in all lines of work, and its essentialness in some.

Respectfully submitted,

H. H. PRATT.
